The play of our young team Soviet head coach Alexander Gomelsky told a TASS correspondent, got a high estimate of specialists and the American press. Its games were played to capacity crowds and were telecast. Our players, despite the successes, understood another thing: they have to further improve their technical and tactical skills and athletic shape. Of course, the basketball originators have not lowered their standards, but we, too, were not wasting our time. World champions Valters, Litvinchuk, Belosjenny, Selonits, Jovaisa proved their high reputation overseas, and Derjugin got into top gear by the end of the tour. Yuriy Biryukov was very reliable and Tikhonov was going from strength to strength. For the young American team was excellent schooling. Gomelsky stressed.

Buta SINGH: we are grateful to the Soviet Union for its help in organizing Asiad

We will never forget the enormous help given us by our Soviet colleagues in organizing the 9th Asiad in Delhi, Indian Government Minister, Mr. Buta Singh, who leads the Asiad-92 Organizing Committee, told Alexei Srebnitsky, our special correspondent, covering the competition. Sport in India is a young and naturally our Soviet friends have a far greater experience in organizing and staging major sporting fixtures.

Soviet sports authorities did a lot of experimentation in preparing and staging the Moscow Olympics. Singh pointed out. And everything they learnt in this complex process they have generously shared with us.

Constant contact between Indian and Soviet sportsmen, experts and leaders is mutually beneficial. Experienced and highly qualified Soviet coaches helped our leading athletes prepare for the 9th Asiad in several Olympic events.

The Games, to which young men and women from 33 countries participated, have had a tremendous impact on the whole of Asia, Singh stressed.

WORLD PEACE COUNCIL APPEAL

Helsinki. The World Peace Council is calling for mass rallies and demonstrations in Europe and throughout the world to demand that NATO should make its decision to deploy new American medium-range nuclear missiles in Western Europe, said the WPC Chairman Ramesh Chandra, address a press conference. The WPC is planning to hold days of action against new nuclear missiles to Europe between 1 and 15 December.

The international public resolution condemns the new measures announced by President Reagan to step up the arms race and believes, quite justifiably, that the new nuclear missiles to Europe between 1 and 15 December.

The grief of this Salvadoran woman who knows nothing of the fate of her three missing children is plain for all to see. Every day brings added sadness and death in the people of El Salvador, as punitive troops trained and armed by Washington murder children, women and old people. The genocide unleashed at American bidding in this Central American country is aimed at propping up the dictatorial regime there. No amount of terror and repression, however, will make the people of El Salvador give up their fight for freedom.

○ The Republic of Maldives has rejected the suggestion that its southern island can be used for "rest and recreation" by American troops stationed at the US base on Diego Garcia Island. This has been made known in an official declaration by the country's President Maumoon Abdul Gayoom.

○ Washington has issued an official threat to Tokyo that it will lodge a complaint with the Secretariat at the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) against Japan's protectionist policy. This is reported in the "Yomiuri" newspaper, citing sources in the Japanese ministry for agriculture, forestry and fisheries.

CHURCHMEN MEET IN MOSCOW

Moscow recently hosted a meeting of members of the Presidium of the World Conference, "Religion Workers for Saving the Sacred Gift of Life from the Nuclear Threat". The Conference took place last week in the Soviet capital. The meeting, held to line with an appropriate Conference decision, drew churchmen from 13 countries of the five continents practicing Christianity, Buddhism, Judaism and Islam. The Conference praised the results of the World Conference, noting the great interest shown to it by the world public.

A resolution adopted by the meeting calls for strong action to promote nuclear disarmament through halting and banning nuclear arms tests to all areas as well as freezing the Soviet and American nuclear arsenals.

The participants of the meeting also issued an appeal to the leaders of the USSR and of the United States urging them to achieve an early successful conclusion to the current Geneva Soviet-American talks on halting nuclear arms race and on limiting and reducing strategic armaments.

● The editors of "Moscow News", which is published in five languages, and the USSR Figure-Skating Federation extend a warm welcome to contestants and guests at the 17th "Moskovskiy Novost" (Moscow News) International Figure-Skating Competition. ● The competition includes pair skating, dancing and female and male single skating events. The main prize, "The Crystal Skate", will be contested by participants from 14 countries from December 2 through 8 at the Luzhiki Palace of Sport. ● The editors will award six "Crystal Skates" made at the Dnepropetrovsk crystal factory to a design by Mikhail Klov. ● A special edition prize, "Moskovskiy Novost-82", will go to the most beautiful and charming skater to be named by journalists and fans. ● As of November 29 about 200 Soviet and foreign journalists have applied to be accredited at the press centre. ● While competing for the "Crystal Skate" award figure skaters will at the same time be vying for the right to participate in the world and European championships. ● The competition will end December 5, with demonstration performances by the best skaters.

Journalists have dubbed the "Moscow News" tournament a "tournament of hopes and dreams", and the "mini-world championships". On more than one occasion "Crystal Skates" winners and prize-holders at world, European and Olympic championships, such as Soviet skaters, have been brought out on the ice at Luzhiki has a distinctive feature of its own. TWO HUNDRED DAYS IN SPACE

Cosmonauts Anatoly Gruzdev and Valentin Lebedev have entered the 29th week of their stay aboard the Salyut-7 station. They have now been in space for more than 200 days and are continuing their astrophysical, technological and medical-biological experiments.

With their RT-4M telescope, the cosmonauts have studied the X-ray characteristics of Sirius. The orientation and stabilization of the station necessary to perform the study were carried out by means of Salyut-7's control system.

They have also completed an experiment in the Kristall installation to obtain a semiconductor single crystal of cadmium selenide in conditions of microgravity.

At the present time, the two cosmonauts are continuing their experiments to study the pattern of growth of the tissue of wheat and peas as part of their biological research programme to be carried out on board the station.

Days of Byelorussian harvest opened at the jubilee "in a Single Family" show, at the USSR Exhibition of Economic Achievements.

The republic of Byelorussia stretches for 620 kilometers from the country's western borders to the east. It is the sixth largest Soviet republic in terms of territory (207,500 sq km) and the fifth largest in terms of population.

Byelorussia was particularly hard hit in World War II, when the Nazis burnt and razed to the ground 209 cities and regional centres, and 9,200 villages. One in every four people died — it took thirty years after the war for the pre-war population level to be reached, and nearly 3,000,000 people were left homeless.

The entire country helped Byelorussia in its post-war revival: new cities were built as well as major industrial projects; today many cities in the republic such as Zhodzinsk, Novopolotsk, and Zhodino, etc., are less than 25 years old.

At present the republic boasts over a hundred industries; it meets over half the nation's need in potassium fertilizer, a quarter of its need in lime, over 21 per cent of its need in chemical fibre and 14 per cent of its need in tractors.

The upwards of a thousand products displayed at the show are exported to a hundred-plus nations. Among them is the renowned Belarus tractor now in operation in 80 countries; 60 nations buy over a hundred different machine-tool models, produced in Byelorussia ranging from simple drilling machines to automatic lines; while 100,000 DeAZ and MAZ trucks have been bought by countries in Europe, Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Displayed at the show are various handicrafts and items made of flax, in both traditional and modern design. Miniature models of the "Vostok" and "Soyuz" spacecraft and a collection of clothes in national style. The best of the republic's 40,000 amateur folk groups provide for visitors to the exhibition.

UN: space should be weapon free

New York. In the First Committee of the UN General Assembly, a delegation composed of 115 countries has voted in favour of a resolution which stresses that the international community must take further effective measures to prevent the arms race spilling over into outer space. The Committee is asked to examine this issue as a top priority.

It was the Soviet Union who steered UN attention towards this problem. At the previous session of the UN General Assembly the Soviet delegation proposed that a treaty be concluded to ban the deployment of weapons of any type in space. This idea was supported by an absolute majority of UN members, yet the world commonly failed to get down to practical work on the issue because of the obstructive position adopted by the United States.

As was noted in the First Committee, the reasons prompting Washington to foil these efforts are easy to understand. The present administration has issued a special directive for the military "development" of space around the earth. The Pentagon, in its turn, regards space as a potential theatre of military operations.

This is why the United States cast the only vote in the First Committee against the resolution to prevent the further militarization of space.

The latest to land on strips.

PALESTINIAN LEADERS MEET IN SYRIA

Damascus. A meeting of the Central Council of the Palestine Liberation Organization has been held here. The situation on the occupied territories as well as ways of solving the Middle East problem were discussed.

Commenting on the so-called "Reagan plan" for a Middle East settlement, the PLO Council stressed that the plan ignored the right of the Palestinian people to self-determination or to a state of their own, without which a just and lasting peace in the Middle East is impossible.

Speaking after the meeting, the Chairman of the Palestine

National Council (PNC), Khalid al-Fahum, said that the Palestinian people continued to regard the PLO as their sole legitimate representative upholding their inalienable national rights. Commenting on the Israeli aggression against the Lebanese and Palestinian peoples, he said that this act of banditry was a consequence of the separate Camp David deal, and that it would have been impossible without air support from Washington. The PNC Chairman said he was in favour of Egypt returning to the Arab fold. But in order to do this Egypt must renounce the Camp David course, he said.

ISRAEL CONTINUES ITS AGGRESSION

New York. In defiance to protests from the world public, the Zionist leadership in Israel is attempting its annexation of the occupied Arab lands.

According to the American Manufacturers Institute, the occupation authorities have requisitioned up to 60 per cent of all territory on the West Bank where the construction of new, as well as the expansion of existing paramilitary settlements, military installations, roads, etc., goes on non-stop.

Driving the Palestinian Arabs from these lands, on which several generations of their ancestors have lived and worked, the invaders justify their actions by saying that the former have no documentary proof of their ownership of these tracts.

The Palestinians are forced to leave their native places and go elsewhere because of other illegal measures introduced by the Israelis.

MITTERRAND FOR FURTHER DEVELOPMENT OF FRANCO-SOVIET RELATIONS

Paris. In an interview to the "Le Monde" newspaper, the French President Francois Mitterrand noted the historical continuity in Franco-Soviet relations and said he was in favour of their further development. In an agreement any form of economic blockade against Russia, he said, and France will not stop trading with her. I will be loyal to the commitments undertaken by our allies with reference to the so-called strategic goods, but I will not have the sale of butter to Russia being described as "strategic".

The president stressed the importance of the disarmament talks and the need to achieve progress, noting that the Soviet Union has a legitimate right to be concerned over its security.

that, that this will lead to a serious deterioration in the international situation, Rostek Chandra stressed.

The American administration wants to deploy new MX missile. It exerts pressure on its NATO allies in order to have new American nuclear medium-range missiles deployed in Europe, Chandra continued, and, at the same time, sets every pretext to evade serious discussion of the items negotiated at the talks on halting nuclear armaments in Europe. The Cruise missiles and Pershing-2s are first-strike weapons, and, therefore, their deployment on the ground is a direct threat to the security of the West. European countries will disrupt the approximate parity in strategic forces between the USSR and the United States.

OBITUARY

Our readers must have given accolades to this portrait. Oleg Anichkin, one of the most eminent Soviet political observers, was a regular contributor on this page. He passed away last Saturday. He died quite suddenly, at 52.

He was an excellent TASS correspondent and worked for long periods in the USA, Britain, Australia — countries he loved and loved. He was an objective and profound researcher, a well-known and a fine expert on the man and the mind of political intrigues of political and military nature. His best devoted to have been the "American relations". He was a journalist with a post-war background, a journalist, a principled, and an act of good will in politics. He was an active champion of the Soviet peace movement.

For us he was not only a partner, but a good counsellor and friend. The editors express their deep condolences to his wife, daughter and son. He will be missed.

FACTS and EVENTS

Government

reshuffle in Ghana

Accra. The Provisional National Defence Council in Ghana has devised a programme for the economic revival of the country which it is hoped will guide a speedy solution of the economic difficulties it faces. It was stated by J. Rawlings, the Council's Chairman, Speaker of the National Assembly, that the Council had also prepared a project for the reorganisation of the structure to manage the affairs of state.

Headings pointed out that at least 100 authorities are involved in the circumstances of a disrupted coup on November 21. He emphasized the need for a purge of rank-and-file members of the government of social organizations involved in people who, under the name of revolutionary slogans, are in effect engaged in subversive activities. The attempt to overthrow the government by the use of force represents the crime of the broadest popular masses to a crime against the Ghanaian people, he said.

FREE PRESS' UNDER FIRE

Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia. Deputy Prime Minister Datuk Musa Hitam has sharp criticism for the way the Western press distorted events in the developing nations. Addressing the information and the media seminar, sponsored by a UNESCO commission, he stressed that Western newsmen posed in developing countries a negative attitude towards their efforts on reaching rumours, gossip and various other fabrications. He said newsmen from developing nations must not be deceived by Western propaganda, which, though very vocal in its support of a "free press", is in fact pursuing mercenary goals.

FLIES

Engineers from the American firm of Martin Paul decided that all previous methods of exterminating flies were utterly inefficient. They have therefore marketed a plastic air pistol which emits suction darts tied to the pistol by a long string. The user scores a direct hit by the fly with the sucker. Although such pistols have been manufactured before — as toys for little children — an efficient fly swatter has the added advantage of being a fun pastime. It costs three dollars.

MUSICAL TELEPHONE

Musical telephones are the latest craze in Canada. They have an in-built miniature recorder with a changeable cassette which can play eight tunes. The telephone's popularity is hardly surprising: it is, after all, much more pleasant to be summoned to the phone by one's favourite tune instead of by shrill buzzes.

EATING AND APPENDICITIS

There has been a drastic drop in the number of appendix operations in Britain. The appendix becomes inflamed due to low cellulose fibre content in food. This is thought to be due to the fact that recently the British have been eating more vegetables, fruit and brown bread.

SUEZ CANAL 130 YEARS LATER

Cairo. The 130-year-old Suez Canal is now one of the crucial factors in the Egyptian economy and a major source of its export earnings. Its 1982 revenues are expected to amount to 1,100 million dollars. Over a hundred nations use this international waterway which has been widened and deepened many times since it was first built. The first stage of reconstruction work on the canal came to an end two years ago, making it possible for fully loaded oil tankers with a displacement of up to 150,000 tonnes to pass through it.

FROM the SOVIET PRESS

WHO DISLIKES THE UN?

The United States seeks in all ways possible to diminish the role of the United Nations Organization, its General Assembly as well as that of the Security Council. This is the conclusion come to by the Soviet NEW TIMES weekly in its analysis of Washington's policy towards the UN.

Touching upon the negative American stand which prevented the adoption at the United Nations of the resolution on the termination of the Israeli aggression, the weekly writes: Threatening to suspend its activities at the United Nations and to stop giving it financial support, the American government seeks in turn the clock backwards. The United States is ready to disregard the interests of the whole world for the sake of "solidarity" with a state which systematically violates the letter and spirit of the UN Charter and ignores UN decisions.

World development raises many questions and these should be resolved via negotiation rather than by blackmail and confrontation. All attempts to hinder the normal functioning of the United Nations are fraught with unforeseen and dangerous consequences. Nobody should forget this, the weekly stresses.

BUSH'S AFRICAN WALKAROUND

The African countries are continuing the struggle to strengthen their independence and for complete political and economic liberation. They reject the American attempts to have in the African continent imperialist and racist prescriptions for the resolution of the problems of southern Africa. Alexander Solzhenitsyn writes in PRAVDA. He is condemning the African tour made by US Vice-President George Bush with the prime aim of finding a solution to the Namibian problem.

In all the countries visited by Bush, he tried to impose the American South African viewpoint which boils down to the contention that the gaining of independence by the Namibian people depends directly on the withdrawal of Cuban military personnel from Angola. The very idea of equating the withdrawal of Cuban troops with the presence of Cuban troops on Angolan soil is utterly absurd. The latter were invited to Angola by the legitimate government of that country. In full conformity with the UN Charter, to protect Angola's independence from encroachments of the apartheid racism and their henchmen. The absurdity of the equation must have been realized in Washington, even before the Vice-President's tour.

MILITARY THREAT TO THE WORLD

The unprecedented scale in the deployment and storage of conventional arms which is accompanied by mounting arms exports is highly dangerous in terms of this planet, KREAS-NAYA ZVEZDA points out. The United States accounts for nearly 45 per cent of the world trade in arms, with the other NATO nations accounting for over 20 per cent. In full correspondence with its plans for global and regional domination, America concentrates on pouring weapons into countries with reactionary regimes, to help crush the national liberation movements there and to further boost American military presence in areas far away from its borders.

The piling-up by imperialism, and by the United States in particular, of all possible methods of annihilation and destruction is aimed at the attainment of military superiority. Though such a goal is unrealistic, it is also exceedingly perilous for it threatens peace and international security, the paper emphasizes.

NEEDED: A POLICY OF GOOD-NEIGHBOURLINESS

Commenting on relations between this country and Japan, the ASIA AND AFRICA TODAY journal notes that there is a growing realization in Japan that freezing political contacts with the USSR is more than anything else damaging to the interests of Japan itself. One indication of this is the Japanese initiative concerning a resumption of meetings between the Japanese and Soviet foreign ministers and of practices of holding working consultations between the ministries of the two countries.

At present, Soviet-Japanese relations are going through the most complicated period in their history. Quite a few political and public business leaders in Japan are trying to shift the blame for this on the Soviet Union. There is convincing evidence, however, that this country has invariably been in favour of its relations with its Far Eastern neighbour being developed on the basis of equality and mutually beneficial cooperation, and in the spirit of genuine good-neighbourliness. The Soviet people do not want any signposts or reversals in relations with Japan. This policy was confirmed at the 28th CPSU Congress and finds its concrete embodiment in the practical actions undertaken by the Soviet Union.

THE PENTAGON TO USE LIE DETECTORS

Washington. The US Defense Department intends to introduce the lie detector to establish the loyalty of its staff.

According to "The Washington Post", the Pentagon leaders have drawn up a directive which provides for the use of lie detectors for the most diverse purposes, from selecting prospective employees to detecting those already in the service suspected of undesirable contacts with the press.

Up to now, the Pentagon only had authority to use the lie detector in the investigation of serious crimes, and then only on the condition that their employees agreed to its use.

VIEWPOINT

Zone of peace in the Indian Ocean: those for and those against

The 37th session of the UN General Assembly in New York is currently the scene of consultations between various groups of nations — members of the UN Ad Hoc Committee on the Indian Ocean — on a draft resolution concerning the procedure for an international conference on the Indian Ocean. The decision to convene such a conference in the first half of 1983 was approved by the General Assembly last year; the present discussion centres around the adoption of a resolution specifying that the conference will open in Colombo on May 9, 1983, will last three weeks, and will be viewed as the first step towards the implementation of the 1971 UN Declaration of the Indian Ocean as a Zone of Peace. In addition, the Committee is to be assigned the task of preparatory work for the conference, including the framing of a preliminary agenda, organizational matters, determining the level of representation, etc.

All the above elements are to be found in a businesslike and constructive draft resolution tabled by the non-aligned nations at a session of the Committee held recently before the current session of the UN As-ssembly opened. This document, which already has the support of a clear majority of Committee members, and, in the view of political commentators in New York, would also enjoy support in the General Assembly, were it to be submitted for consideration by that body, will be countered by a potentially hostile draft to be submitted by adversaries of the peace zone project, namely the United States and some of its allies. The draft proposes that the convocation of the conference be postponed for an indefinite period of time. In this way they attempt to block the implementation of a resolution they themselves participated on.

Casting in on the fact that Committee resolutions on the Indian Ocean have to be passed unanimously, the American-led "minority dictatorship" charges that any mention in the resolution of a date for the conference is totally unacceptable, arguing that the existing political climate in the Indian Ocean region is not favourable to holding a conference. But modern history has examples galore of international conferences being held and international agreements signed despite the fact that the situation in one or other part of the world remained tense. The delegate of Sri Lanka, the country which launched the idea of a zone of peace in the Indian Ocean, justly observed in the course of the general debate that not one international conference or talks have ever been delayed until such a time as circumstances border on the ideal.

It is worth remembering in this respect that once before the United States lobbied a UN General Assembly decision to hold a conference in 1981 by quoting the same "argument". But why should America, so vocal in its support for a zone of peace, is not be overtly sabotaging the attainment of this goal? The present American administration, wedded as it is to stepping American rule on various parts of the globe, is relying on the strategic exploitation of the Indian Ocean. Under its 1980-83 Defense Guidance, the Pentagon aims to build a network of military bases in the Indian Ocean deploying the rapid deployment force there, and what is more, as a permanent base.

Formerly, this force is to become a special task unit beginning January 1, 1983, but even today it has 230 thousand men and officers and is to double its ranks in the next few months, with its range of operations involving some 30 nations. According to its chief, General Robert Kingston, commander of rapid deployment force, will be responsible for American military activity in the Persian Gulf and South-West Asia. What use has the United States for a "force" nearly 500,000-strong in the region UN delegates of the non-aligned countries provided the answer to this question when they dubbed the above unit a "rapid intervention force", in view of the fact that it is being assigned on a permanent basis three aircraft carriers with nuclear weapons as well as cover and antisubmarine ships. It is clear that for the American military the Indian Ocean region also represents a new forward-based weapons area which threatens the Soviet Union from the south. The masters of the White House would like to see the Indian Ocean turned into an "American lake" rather than into a zone of peace and good-neighbourly relations.

The enemies of the zone of peace project have started "in base and perilous game" to the UN. Pretending they are searching for a compromise decision, while in actual fact they aim at splitting the non-aligned countries, they attempt to substitute the Committee's existing mandate by proposing some regional conference on the Indian Ocean, promising in the same breath more economic aid and "equal economic cooperation". The non-aligned nations, however, are well aware that now is the time to decide whether or not the Indian Ocean is to become a zone of peace.

PHOTOS REFLECTING IRONY AND WARMTH

The first one-man show by photographer, Valery Nisanov, has taken place at the exhibition hall of the Moscow Committee of Graphic Artists (28 Malaya Gruzinskaya St.).

For about fifteen years Nisanov, who is a free-lance photographer, has been hard at work on his photographic portraits of film makers—actors, directors and other people involved in the world of cinema.

Valery has selected his favorite works for the show. The series devoted to his friend, the actor and song-writer Vladimir Vysotsky, for example, who died young; and studies of actors Roman Bykov, Nikolai Plotnikov and Boris Khmelnitsky. Though photography is often described as a cold art—the disingenuous feature of Nisanov's photos is their warmth. There is an element of discovery about these works, which tell us more about the human character. Others express a well-tempered irony which is typical of the photographer.

First performance of Haydn opera

The first performance of "L'incontro improvviso", the opera by the outstanding Austrian composer, J. Haydn, has taken place at the Moscow Chamber Musical Theatre. This is the first time the opera has been staged anywhere in the world.

This work once admired by Haydn's contemporaries was for a long time considered lost, said the opera's producer and chief director of the theatre, Boris Pokrovsky. But several years ago a yellow morocco silver-engraved case was found at the Leningrad Saltikov-Schedrin public library. It contained sheets of paper covered with notes, one of them bearing the heading "L'incontro improvviso. Opera". The libretto in Italian was also there.

This was a priceless find. The opera which was only ever given once performance—in 1775—is, like all Haydn's creations, permeated in a joyful attitude towards life and is distinguished by its bright images and folk themes.

The Moscow Chamber Musical Theatre's revival of the opera has been timed to coincide with the 250th anniversary of the composer's birth which is being observed all over the world in accordance with a UNESCO decision. It is sung by Pokrovsky's graduates at the musical drama department of the State Institute of Dramatic Art.

OLD RUSSIAN RECORDS ON DISPLAY

The House of Culture at the Aprelevka Records Factory, the biggest in this country, has opened a museum illustrating the history of the record industry. The exhibits on display tell the story of the record industry in this country. The first Russian records were released in September 1910 at the Aprelevka station near Moscow. Today, these first releases weighing nearly a pound can be seen at the museum.

Among the items on display are the first gramophones, photographs of scientists whose names have come down to us in the history of record-making and portraits of Leo Tolstoy, Pyotr Chaikovsky, and Martin Gorky who early this century made recordings of their voices. The history at Aprelevka reflects this country's history in music, prose and poetry. Songs dating back to the times of the Civil War, and to the first live-performance, as well as melodies of pre-war times. The factory continued to release songs even during World War II. In the first few months of the Trans-Siberian run Air France carried 3,396 passengers. Naturally enough, the route is popular with passengers, as indicated by the passenger flow, Air France's wide-bodied Boeing-747 planes have begun a regular service from Paris to Tokyo and back, via Siberia. The new route is the result of talks between the USSR Ministry of Civil Aviation and the French Civil Aviation Department held in 1981-1982 in Moscow and Paris.

Significantly, the French company was the first European always to get authorization to fly over Siberia.

with Paris-bound planes filled to 70 per cent capacity and to 62 per cent capacity on the Tokyo run.

In addition to the weekly Paris-Tokyo flights via Siberia, Air France also operates four Paris-Tokyo flights via the Arctic.

A 250-TIME INCREASE IN 25 YEARS

The port of Zhdanov, on the Sea of Azov, has direct links with more than 20 countries. It is often described as the "sea gates of the Donbas", for it transships cargo to and from this industrial area, one of the biggest in the country.

It was 25 years ago that Zhdanov docks celebrated the arrival of the first Bulgarian cargo vessel, the "Shipka", at the port. Since then, more than 600 Bulgarian ships have called here bringing different cargoes. The volume of deliveries of Soviet-made equipment to Bulgaria has gone up by 350 times. The metal shipped by the Bulgarian docks goes to the Bulgarian Leolo and Kremikovits metalurgical complexes—while the Donetsk coal field provides fuel for the Bulgarian "heat" and power stations of Varna and Devnya, and for other enterprises. In turn, there has been an increase in the amount of cargo handled by Bulgarian docks for Bulgaria to this country. It includes: machines, plants, consumer items, vegetables and fruit.
